

SENATE COMMITTEE HOSTILE TO WILSON

Members Seem Unwilling To Discuss Peace Treaty With President—Are They Afraid To?

(By Associated Press)

Washington, July 15—Indications that the President will not be asked to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for discussion of the peace treaty are said today to have been received in administration circles. High administration officials intimated they were informed by some committee members that a majority of that body seemed hostile to the suggestion that the President be asked to appear before that body or to confer as a body with him at the White House.

Should the committee decide not to invite President Wilson to appear before it, the President might begin his tour of the country earlier than he planned. It is generally understood the President is withholding his decision regarding the itinerary and date for beginning his "swing around the circle," until the committee decides whether it decides to discuss the treaty with him.

The Foreign Relations Committee later adopted a resolution requesting the President, if not incompatible with the public interest, to furnish the committee with virtually all documents the American peace commissioners considered in their work on the treaty.

FORD TELLS HIS IDEAS ABOUT WAR

(By Associated Press)

Mount Clemens, Mich., July 15—Henry Ford, the plaintiff in the million dollar libel suit against the Chicago Daily Tribune, resumed the witness stand today. The mysterious flag of humanity, 7 by 14 feet, earthen white on a blue field appeared. The defense counsel has been demanding it since the trial started. Ford said it was the first time he had seen it. He denied being an ignorant idealist but said he is merely ignorant of many things.

Ford admitted his ignorance of history, and said he more than ever considered it bunk growing out of tradition, nor had he any personal use for music or other forms of art. He reaffirmed his belief that professional soldiers are murderers and did not except Gens. Pershing or Grant from that category. He said his present view is for fullest preparedness unless the League of Nations is formed. If such a league is not formed, he favors another great war without delay to clean the situation so thoroughly that universal peace will be had.

SAYS ALLIES PROMISED SHANTUNG TO JAPS

(By Associated Press)

Washington, July 15—The charge that Japan secretly secured the pledge of Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia, early in 1917, that in the peace settlement the Shantung Peninsula should, for a certain consideration, be turned over to the Tokio government, was made in the Senate today by Senator Norris, republican of Nebraska, who produced what he declared to be copies of diplomatic correspondence embodying the promise of Great Britain and France's pledges. This, Norris declared, fully explained the pressure resulting in Shantung's transfer to Japan under the Versailles treaty, whose ratification by the Senate, he asserted, would write the blackest page in the nation's history.

IMPORTANT STORY FOR BUSINESS MEN

Will Be Told In Moving Pictures and Lecture at Alhambra Theatre Tonight

Much interest has been aroused in business circles of the city over the appearance tonight at the Alhambra theatre of the moving picture entitled "Troubles of a Merchant and How to Stop Them," which will be shown under the auspices of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

During the exhibition of the three-reel film, an interesting and instructive lecture will be delivered by Mr. R. H. Kennedy, of the National Cash Register Company. Tickets are being distributed about town today as there is no charge to see the picture, and everyone with any business interests will be benefited by seeing it. The management of the Alhambra very generously gave the use of the theatre for the picture tonight, without charge.

The retail merchandising lecture, which has been prepared by The National Cash Register Company, is declared to be one of the most comprehensive lectures on the reasons for retail business failures ever prepared, and has been shown before commercial bodies, conventions, and other organizations the country over.

By means of stereopticon slides, the lecture deals with the value of newspaper advertising to the merchant, tells him how to prepare advertisements, and also explains in detail the best methods of window display, how to solve delivery problems, perfect a store organization, and other interesting ideas. Many ideas of importance to merchants and clerks will be brought out during the lecture. In other communities where it has been shown, it has met with great enthusiasm. It is expected that every business man and clerk in the city will avail himself of the opportunity offered by the lecture, and that a large attendance will result. No charge will be made for admission.

LITTLEJOHN'S SHOWS MAKING BIG HIT

Littlejohn's Carnival opened to a capacity business Monday night, at Elmer Deatherage's big lot on Third street. The place took on the appearance of Broadway at its height of gaiety. Throngs visited the "Bowery" and the youngsters rode the Merry-go-round and flying machines to their heart's content. Col. Littlejohn and his company have always been a favorite in Richmond, and he has established the reputation of carrying with him the cleanest shows on the road, and this year he has not varied from this particular feature in the least. The engagement in Richmond will last throughout the week, and a cordial invitation is extended the pleasure seekers by the management of the Littlejohn organization.

Capt. Jim Eskew, the famous Wild West rider, has issued a notice that he will ride anything on two or four legs, that can be brought to the grounds. Anyone having a bad acting mule or horse, a steer or any other animal that a man can get a leg over will be ridden by Capt. Eskew. So bring them in. Col. Littlejohn has arranged an entrance to the grounds with a gate so that those who go out in cars may have ample parking room. He was much pleased today to receive a letter from city officials of Versailles where he exhibited last week, commending his show. The letter read as follows:

Versailles, Ky., July 14th, 1919.

To Whom It May Concern:—Mr. Thomas Littlejohn showed in Versailles last week and gave our people an absolutely clean Carnival. Every show was moral and clean and all of the people connected with the Carnival Company conducted themselves in an exemplary manner. Good order was maintained upon the grounds; in common parlance the Carnival "left a good taste in the mouths of our people."

Mr. Littlejohn has showed in Versailles upon several occasions and has established himself into the good graces of our people by his courteous and gentlemanly conduct of himself and shows. We take pleasure in recommending Littlejohn's United Shows.

NOTHING LIKE IT IN PROTETANTISM

Magnitude and Grandeur of Methodist Centenary Celebrated Described by Miss Olmstead

Miss Belle Bennett and Deaconess Emily Olmstead, together with quite a delegation of Madison county Methodists, have returned from the magnificent Centenary Celebration at Columbus, Ohio. In speaking of it, Deaconess Olmstead said:

The greatest Centenary Exposition which opened on June 20th and continued until July 13th, in the city of Columbus, marks the greatest event in Methodism. The Associated Press announced that if the crowd each day averaged 50,000 more than a million people will have attended the celebration of Methodist Missions. On July 4th, when W. G. McAdoo, John R. Mott and other men of note were on the program, it was officially announced that more than 25,000 persons were on the grounds that day.

The culmination of the long fight to make America a dry nation was fittingly celebrated in connection with Prohibition Day, July 1st. William Jennings Bryan was the star attraction, and in the two addresses which he delivered, he showed much of his old time fire and eloquence, the audience again and again interrupting him with prolonged applause. Ex-President Taft, in a magnificent address, called on militant Methodism to rally to the support of the League of Nations.

Aside from the number of other celebrities on the program throughout the 24 days, there were evangelistic services being held in an immense tent each evening, vesper services by the lake side, and on July 4th, in the great tent, having a seating capacity of 4000, Thomas Tip-lady, an English chaplain in the trenches for three years, delivered a most interesting political speech on "A British View of America's Independence Day."

Each of the eight large buildings on the grounds, filled with exquisite curios and architecture all planned by one of the great scenic artists of the day, awaited the visitor to the Centenary celebration. The whole world never seemed brought so close together. One could step from the building representing Africa, where in that building alone, more than 70 different demonstrations, life plays, pageants, and pantomimes were given to portray the customs and progress of its people and just across the way, could be seen a large portion of the walled cities of China and the long procession of dragon worshippers coming out of the temples; then just a little distance away, was sunny Japan, the flowery kingdom, with its daily Japanese kindergarten going on, real live little Japs having been brought from the Pacific coast, and their teacher, a young Japanese woman, the daughter of a baron.

India, Latin America, and even devastated Europe, appealing in all of its hopelessness and the suffering through which it has passed, met the visitor's eye and gripped his interest.

Two buildings were entirely given over to our own country, Ellis Island being splendidly represented, and nightly demonstrations of the landing and examination of the immigrants; the crowded streets of New York City, the city problems confronting the church with regard to the boys and girls on these streets, all were given.

There were riots, and strikers and labor demonstrations of all kinds to show the great need of Christianizing our communities and cities. More than 1000 native converts were brought to Columbus from the countries of the world where the gospel has been taken; 10,000 young men and women served during the 24 days as stewards, explaining the exhibits and taking part in the demonstrations.

"The Wayfarer," a pageant written especially for the Centenary celebration, was considered by many as the most superior production of its kind every given in the United States, having a cast of 2500. Thousands came to Columbus just for the purpose of witnessing this pageant. In October, it will be staged in New York City at the Metropolitan theatre, running for a whole season; it will also be represented in moving pictures which D. H. Griffith filmed and presented to the Methodists as a gift in memory of his mother.

A noted speaker present said of the celebration: "There has been nothing like it in all of the history of Protestantism. Even Methodism did not dream of the things that should come to pass. The utmost that was thought of was that there would be a moderate celebration in which thanksgiving for the accomplishments of the century should play a prominent part, but the providential leading of the men and women of vision, both in the Northern and Southern churches, swept away the limitations apparently set and the result is that the heathen world, and all the Christian activities in the heathen world as well as those of the homeland, have come to Columbus to bear testimony to the strength, virility and spiritual power of Methodism, and to the devotion, faith and self sacrifice of its ministers and teachers."

Perhaps the outstanding day of all days was Life Service Day which was observed with three great services. In a very large degree, this was the culmination of the whole effort back of the Centenary Movement, and the impressiveness with which the services were conducted, and the timeliness of the appeals of the speakers, were the subject of much favorable comment of the thousands who thronged the Coliseum that day. Between four and five hundred young men and women arose and took their places on the great platform, signifying their desire and determination to make their lives count for something in service to Jesus Christ.

The controlling force of this celebration and of the great Centenary Movement was a Joint Commission of 14 chosen from the Methodist Episcopal Church whose membership has something more than 4,500,000 and the M. E. Church, South, having 2,250,000.

Dr. Belle H. Bennett of Richmond was the only woman on the Commission.

OFFER BIG PASTURE FOR AIRPLANE USE

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Crutcher have offered the use of one of their large pastures on the Four Mile road as a landing place for the U. S. Army airplane which it is planned to send to Richmond this week on a recruiting campaign for this branch of the service. This kind offer will be communicated at once to Mr. John Farra, at Lancaster, who is in charge of the landing grounds there, and it is hoped that the flier will be seen doing his stunts over Richmond within a day or so.

The fact that the aviator has taken up civilians at several places on short flights, has caused much interest here and it is probable such an opportunity will be offered here to some strong-nerved person. Lieut. McCreary Simmons, formerly of the air service, is interested in seeing that satisfactory arrangements are made for his brother officer when he comes to Richmond in his machine. Announcement of any further information regarding the coming of the flier to this section will be made the Daily Register as quickly as possible.

PACKARD PLEASES IN FINAL NUMBER

Alton Packard, the famous cartoonist, concluded the program of the Redpath Chautauqua in Richmond for this season, with a most delightful evening Monday night. His work with the crayon is remarkable, of course, but he entertained the big audience just about as much with his monologue work and musical efforts as with his cartoons. It was a real feature in every way and all seemed to enjoy it.

Subscriptions were concluded satisfactorily for the next year's guarantee and the delightful and instructive Chautauqua entertainments are assured for another year in Richmond. The attendance this year has been the best ever known in Richmond and all will be glad to know that the venture has proven a success from every angle.

The Metropolitan Quartet gave some greatly appreciated musical numbers before Packard went on last night's program, and were compelled to respond to repeated encores.

A Madison county post of the American Legion, composed of veterans of the world war, will be organized at court house tonight at 8 o'clock. Lieut. Harry D. Rice issued the following call for the meeting Thursday night to make the organization:
